Padua Hills Theatre Claremont

- This historic theatre and dining complex, designed in the Spanish Mission Revival style by the Pasadena architectural firm of Marston and Maybury, was constructed in 1930 as a community theatre by local citizens led by Herman and Bess Garner.
- From 1932 to 1974, the theatre was the home of the Mexican Players who presented Spanish-language, Mexican-themed musicals there to hundreds of thousands of visitors. For many years the area around the theatre served as a community focus for the arts. Artists and writers, attracted to the natural setting, built homes and studios nearby for iron work, weaving, pottery and glass.
- The theatre was placed on the National Register of Historic Places and California Register in 1998.
